

Dear Mr. Christopher Reeve

I am Mr. Bako Temur (58 years old, higher education in sport medicine). It's almost 15 years that I am busy with a scientific work, which directly relates to the patients with spinal traumas. I wish I could send you this letter a long time ago when in 1996 I read the article about you in the "Sovershenno Secretno" magazine (Top Secret). I was shocked since only a very spiritual person could stand such a situation. I am carefully keeping the magazine up to now (I am sending the copy to you). I have not seen films with your participation, but I liked you as an individual and I only have sincere respect to you. Later I wanted to write to support you and let you know that practical and scientific research activities were being conducted in Armenia in the field of rehabilitation of such patients. I am writing you with a delay since just recently two scientific articles were published about theoretical basis of the methodology, that we called Bio Energetic Correlation of Organism.

This letter is about this methodology that I suppose you might be interested in.

After the terrible earthquake in Armenia in 1998 there were many patients with spinal traumas who I wanted to be helpful. Before, in 70th I worked for physiological institute named after L. A. Orbelli. To my insistent request my friend Mr. John Sarkissian, Doctor of Biological sciences, chief of the Lab. Of Physiology of CNS function compensation, Orbeli Institute of Physiology organized and involved me in the group supporting people who suffered natural disasters. The group worked at the Institute of Physiology (rehabilitation). Fortunately I could help many of this people thanks to my natural gift (biofield), which I inherited from my forefather physician.

After my approach, the patients could sense the currency and pulsations in spinal and lower limbs. In 30-35 days sensibility would come back, and people could slightly move their first toes and then feet. The patients also felt itch around the abdominal cavity that confirms improvement of digestion and urine-genital functions of the organism. Further we succeeded in remarkable increasing the amplitude of motions of limbs by applying the method of electro stimulation (N-reflex meter), with the help of French hospital apparatus "Alvar".

Taking into consideration the results achieved, Physiology Institute administration decided to create a scientific-research group in charge of J. Sarkissian to study the phenomena and improve the methodology of treatment. But in addition to it I aimed in creating an apparatus (kind of biological field strengthener), with the help of which, those without healing gift could cure people as well. Vladimir Avetisyan assisted me in this work, he also worked for Institute then.

Since the first day he was a witness of my start and feeling inspired with the results of the treatment, created one of the first instrument that fastened the process of rehabilitation up to 20-25 days with 35-40 seconds duration. During the performance many had the feeling of pleasure and asked to prolong the duration.

I always remember V. Avetisyan with special warmth and merely I cannot forget him rolling 4 000 thin copper cord on the core of the apparatus.

Unfortunately the plan of creating scientific-research group remained unrealized due to collapse of the USSR.

The newly created Armenia was not up to science, while there were times of cold, starvation and poorness, when there was only 2 hours electricity per day, one after the other scientific institutions were closing and people selling their houses and leaving abroad.

I was left alone with my dream and ideas, until I met a faithful friend and companion in face of Susan Gabrielyan. Together with her help we created a list of apparatus all by ourselves (she is a cybernetic with a red diploma). Together we also managed in representing our ideas to common language understandable for scientists.

As a result An Integral Model of etheric-physiological structure of organism has been created which is the foundation of the treatment methodology.

The government attitude towards sciences remained the same and our efforts to bring the idea to life so that it could belong to Armenia are destined to fail.

We stayed faithful to our ideas, though finally lost any hope that the “Laboratory of Central Nervous System Functions Compensation Physiology” will ever be financed. We did not become members of this laboratory (still keeping in touch with it throughout all these years) as still reduction of positions is continuing at the Institute, the Institute that used to be one of the leading ones in human brains studies during the USSR. Chair of the laboratory J. Sarkissian cannot offer us anything but scientific degrees, which we refused as far as not to draw away from our goal. This is the reason that made us to search for support not in Armenia only. You are the first who I thought of and I am applying to. While searching for your address on the net we were nicely surprised to see your fund is financing scientific researches as well.

If I try briefly interpret the plot of energy-correlation method of treatment, then it is rehabilitating the energetic harmony in etheric structure of organism that positively influences generally on physical processes and encourages recovery (this principle of treatment is the base of oriental medicine). The unique nature of this methodology is that some elements of spiritual practice of yoga is suggested to be introduced to medicine based on modern technologies , as well as relieve the potential of oriental reflex therapy through the proposed model of system of meridians. But before we should solve two theoretical problems: decode regularity of energy spread in chakras (special energetic centers located along spinal cord) and accomplish working out the model of meridians (energetic communication ways).

The suggested method of treatment will be as follows: if earlier during treatment with the first devices I had to intuitively choose bioresonance frequencies of patients, then in future a new device should itself define resonance frequencies of patient at the moment with the help of biological feedback and to give out definite sequence of frequencies, which should correspond to vibrations of bija mantras (sound vibrations, by which chakras are characterized). We suppose that it is the bioresonance that makes system of chakras active and ready to accept bioenergy of a donor-healer. Further, energy from system of chakras is distributed through energetic channels (meridians) all over the body. For intensification of healing effect, we suggest to apply Chinese acupuncture based on the new model of meridians, which can scientifically expand opportunities of this ancient medicinal tradition, keeping its century principles. And definition of functional interconnections of both chakras and meridians can serve as the basis for introduction into reflex therapy of new methods of treatment, taking into account individual frequency characteristics of the organism.

Positive changes in etheric structures reflect on the physical level and bring to recovery. On my opinion, this very event took place in many cases in the past, when patients with spinal traumas could feel apprehensibility and do some movements because non-conductive tissue scar in injured region of spine became conductive. We believe that changes in these etheric structures are the reason of all this. We also consider that system of chakras is the more powerful energetic key factor of influence on the organism in comparison with acupuncture channels, this is why this core structure of ether physiology was and remains our main target, to which we aim over 15 years.

On this way we faced the necessity of theoretical basics of Chinese medicine. The unexpected result of this is a graphic model of system of acupuncture channels, which does not contradict to the well known theory of meridians, but expands it creating more integrated picture of energetic communications of the organism. The model is to be worked out. But despite this we hope that acupuncture experts will take practical interest to this right today.
